accordance with current legislation on industrial property is expressly prohibited. In particular, trademarks, trade names, establishment signs, names, logos, slogans or any type of distinctive sign belonging to the Owner may not be used.

8. Cookies

The University of Jaén may use cookies while accessing this website. Cookies are used to track user preferences and optimize web page design. Cookies are automatic procedures for collecting information regarding the preferences determined by a user during their visit to a certain web page. This information is recorded in small files that are imperceptibly stored on the corresponding user's computer equipment. Each time the user accesses the web page in question, these files are automatically activated so that the page is configured with the preferences indicated in previous visits. In short, cookies are physical files of personal information housed in the user's own terminal and unequivocally associated with this terminal. Cookies cannot read cookie files created by other websites.

The user has the possibility of configuring his browser program in such a way as to prevent the creation of cookie files or to warn of the moment when this occurs. The website is accessible without the need for the options referring to cookie files to be activated, although it may prevent the correct functioning of security mechanisms for exclusive services or certain services that require greater security. As a general rule, the purpose of the cookie files on the website is to facilitate user navigation.

9. Hyperlinks

The user who wants to introduce links from their own web pages to the University of Jaén, must comply with the conditions detailed below without the ignorance of them avoiding the responsibilities derived from the Law:
