

Updated 27/07/2026:Completion of the award processCall:GRANTS FOR REFUGEE STUDENTS, ASYLUM SEEKERS AND STUDENTS AT HIGH RISK. ACADEMIC YEAR 2026/27.

We are pleased to announce that the selection process has now concluded. Due to the exceptionally high volume of applications received this year—exceeding 9,000—it has been impossible to approve every request. Therefore, applicants who have not received an electronic notification confirming their selection should consider their application to be on the waiting list.

To clarify how this waiting list works, please take into account the following essential considerations:

- Without further action on their part:Your inclusion on the list is managed completely automatically, so there is no need to contact the office or provide new documentation.
- Vacancy allocation:Should places become available in the corresponding program, we will proceed to contact interested parties in strict order, immediately and exclusively through their email, in strict compliance with data protection regulations.
- Official information channel:The only authorized website to check the latest news and track the process is the official website of the call for applications:

 Website of the Call for Aid - University of Jaén

The University of Jaén sincerely thanks all participants for their interest in joining our institution, as well as their understanding regarding the unavoidable limited spaces in such a competitive selection process. We remain firmly committed to the student community, even though these limitations prevent us from meeting all the demand.

We wish all applicants the greatest success in their academic and personal projects, reiterating our willingness to address their inquiries through the established channels.
