On Specific Needs for Educational Support

Education is an essential element for people’s personal and social development and fulfillment. At the University of Jaén are aware that, while this is fundamental for everybody, it is of even greater importance for those with special educational needs, as they may require, in greater or lesser measures, additional assurances in order to participate equally with others and ensure their rights are fully met.

On the present page, we present the wide and varied range of human and technical resources that we have available to whomever might need them, so that they may serve to mitigate any possible difficulties that might arise during their academic lives at our university. If you need us, come to us. We are here to help!
