

HUM-660 Educational Research and Development in Orientation (IDEO)

Coordinator: Dr. Antonio Pantoja Vallejo (apantoja [arroba] ujaen [punto] es)

The IDEO (Educational Research and Development in Orientation) research group was created in 2001 by Antonio Cañas, Antonio Pantoja, Tomás Campoy and Cristóbal Villanueva for the purpose of researching the situation of educational orientation and tutoring in their different contexts and manifestations in order to come up with proposals aimed at improving quality. Over the years, the team that comprises it has renewed itself while at the same time assuming challenges derived from the changes that are occurring in society. Particularly noteworthy is the work carried out on detection of needs in orientation and tutoring or on developing intercultural programs based on internet use as well as on designing a Recommendation System for the orientation of the teaching staff, pupils and university graduates. The IDEO group is the creator and manager of the Electronic Research and Teaching Journal (Revista Electrónica de Investigación y Docencia, REID) (<http://www.revistareid.net>). Ultimately, its purpose is to promote innovation in educational orientation.

Website for the group

Website for the Educational Research and Development in Orientation \(Investigación y Desarrollo Educativo de la Orientación, IDEO\) Research Group

Research lines

- Educational orientation and tutoring
- Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) applied to orientation and tutoring
- Educational orientation and attention to diversity
- Support for the teaching and learning process

Related services and products

- Design and validation of data-gathering instruments
- Detection of needs in socio-educational contexts
- Design, development and evaluation of intervention programs
- Training of teaching staff
- Design of materials for educational orientation and tutoring
- Evaluation and advice for educational organizations
- Evaluation throughout the life cycle

Spanish website: <https://bit.ly/2EGUG1j>