

HUM-761 Arabic, Islamic and Christian Societies

Coordinator: Dr. Francisco Vidal Castro (fvidal [arroba] ujaen [punto] es)

Interdisciplinary group comprising specialists in Arabic and Islamic Studies, in Medieval and Modern History and in Heritage applied to local development. Its field of study are premodern Arabo-Islamic societies and their relations with Christian societies, with special focus on al-Andalus and the Maghreb vis-à-vis the Christian kingdoms as well as the transition from the medieval Islamic to the modern-age Christian world.

Research lines

- History, culture and society of al-Andalus and the Maghreb. Relations with the Christian world
- Study and dissemination of the Andalusí cultural heritage (history, society, literature, art in Andalusia and in Morocco) and of medieval and modern Christian heritage Application to local development
- Islamic Law and society

Related services and products

- Studies on the Andalusí Islamic past in local and provincial spheres of Jaén and Andalusia
- Studies on local history \(medieval and modern\) in the province of Jaén
- Reports on Islam and Arabic culture Legal aspects of immigration
- Analysis and assessment of documentary collections and archives
- Cataloguing and sorting of historical documentation and archives
- Editing of historical documents and written works
- Reports on medieval cultural historical heritage
- Advice on the definition and development of specific heritage-related policies or programs
- Analysis of heritage policies and design of intervention, interpretation and presentation strategies
- Strategic planning for local and rural territorial development through the use of historical and cultural resources
- Specialization courses on Arabic, Islamic and Christian Societies

Spanish website: <https://bit.ly/2GAjOZh>