About the Service

We welcome you to the webspace of the International Relations and Cooperation Service of the University of Jaén, from which we put at your disposal a group of people and material means to provide you with information and the use of important services that you can use while you are taking your studies.

Our essential purpose is to help you to:

Have a national or international mobility experience that provides you with important cultural, academic, and professional benefits. P promote solidarity and social, cultural, and environmental awareness of our students, facilitating participation in Cooperation and/or Volunteer activities.
